Introduction

Roughly 2,000 years ago, the Romans began to build their empire. This was an incredibly long time ago - even before your teachers were born! The Roman Empire was vast and covered most of Europe and North Africa. They became the most powerful civilisation at that time and their legacy lives on today.

Conclusion

Despite their many inventions, the Romans were an arrogant bunch who truly believed they were more powerful and superior to any other nation. Although, if they had not perceived themselves this way, what would life have been like for us today? Can you imagine a world without straight roads, swimming pools and central heating?
