

10. I am learning to choose an appropriate way to publish my writing.

How did you make sure your opening was effective?

- Dialogue to introduce the character
- Short powerful sentence
- Suggesting something exciting/bad is going to happen
- Detail and description with exciting vocabulary

If you have not done so already, make sure you use this writing checklist to check these non-negotiables in your writing.

Checklist

- ☐ Have you copied any words on display accurately?
- ☐ Have you spelt homophones correctly?
- ☐ Have you used apostrophes accurately?
- ☐ Have you used commas for clauses accurately?
- ☐ Have you organised your writing into paragraphs?

- On plain paper with a line guide underneath and then decorate with a border or pictures
- Make a publishing page on the computer to print off and write onto
 - Word process on Google Docs where you can format the font and colour and add borders and pictures

How can you publish your work?

- Neat handwriting
- Correctly copying spellings and correcting spelling mistakes if you spot any
- Checking that your sentences make sense before you write them
- Copying your draft accurately
- Writing in straight lines

What do you need to think about when publishing?

Over to you...

Choose an appropriate way to publish the opening to your spy narrative.

Success Criteria:

- Neatly presented
- Accurately copied sentences and spellings
- Enjoyable to look at

Now share your publishing with your teacher.