What makes it effective? Pick out any key vocabulary that you could magpie for your own description. You could add it to your word bank that you created yesterday.

Create a plan for your setting description. You may want to do some of your own additional research too about The Blitz to help your description. How you decide to plan your writing is up to you!

Pink: Use the planning template to help you. Record your ideas in note form. You could use bullet points. Refer to your word bank that you created yesterday and decide where you will use the vocabulary.

Red: Use the scaffold and fill in the blanks. Use your knowledge of The Blitz to help you to select the best words to suit the purpose.

Challenge: Find out more about The Blitz. Look at the research documents in the folder or undertake your own research. How will you use your research knowledge to make your writing more authentic?
