1. Aims

The aims of relationships and sex education (RSE) at our school are to:

- Provide a framework in which sensitive discussions can take place
- Prepare children for puberty, and give them an understanding of sexual development and the importance of health and hygiene
- Help children develop feelings of self-respect, confidence and empathy
- Create a positive culture around issues of sexuality and relationships
- Teach children the correct vocabulary to describe themselves and their bodies

2. Statutory requirements

As a maintained primary school, we must provide relationships education to all children as per Section 34 of the Children and Social Work Act 2017.

However, we are not required to provide sex education but we do need to teach the elements of sex education contained in the science curriculum.

In teaching RSE, we must have regard to guidance issued by the Secretary of State as outlined in Section 403 of the Education Act 1996.

At Fairisle Junior School we teach RSE as set out in this policy.

3. Policy development

This policy has been developed in consultation with staff, children and parents. The consultation and policy development process involved the following steps:

1. Review – a member of staff or working group pulled together all relevant information including relevant national and local guidance
2. Staff consultation – all school staff were given the opportunity to look at the policy and make recommendations
3. Parent/stakeholder consultation – parents and any interested parties were invited to give their feedback and suggestions online via a Google Form due to Covid-19 restrictions
4. Pupil consultation – we investigated what exactly children want from their RSE
5. Ratification – once amendments were made, the policy was shared with governors, reviewed fully and ratified.

4. Definition

RSE is about the emotional, social and cultural development of children, and involves learning about relationships, sexuality, healthy lifestyles, diversity and personal identity.

RSE involves a combination of sharing information, and exploring issues and values.

RSE is not about the promotion of sexual activity.

5. Curriculum

Our curriculum is described below but we may need to adapt it as and when necessary.

The content of these units is taught in many subjects across the curriculum and in school life. For example:

- A reading text may cover friendships.
- E-Safety in Computing units may cover respectful online relationships.
- An assembly from a charity may tackle bereavement.
- A PSHE lesson may require children to reflect on the stages in a healthy relationship.
- The NSPCC may deliver workshops on safeguarding for children.
- Children may discuss different types of families when learning French.

- In tackling a discriminatory incident, a teacher may discuss respectful relationships and LGBTQ+ with the class.

We have developed the curriculum in consultation with parents, children and staff, taking into account the age, needs and feelings of children. If children ask questions outside the scope of this policy, teachers will respond in an appropriate manner, so they are fully informed and don't seek answers online.

Primary sex education will focus on:

- Preparing boys and girls for the changes that adolescence brings
- How a baby is conceived and born

6. Delivery of RSE

RSE is taught within the personal, social, health and economic (PSHE) education curriculum. Biological aspects of RSE are taught within the science curriculum, and other aspects are included in religious education (RE).

Children also receive stand-alone sex education sessions delivered by a class teacher however this will also focus on healthy and respectful relationships.

Relationships education focuses on teaching the fundamental building blocks and characteristics of positive relationships including:

- Families and people who care for me
- Caring friendships
- Respectful relationships
- Online relationships
- Being safe

These areas of learning are taught within the context of family life taking care to ensure that there is no stigmatisation of children based on their home circumstances (families can include single parent families, LGBT parents, families headed by grandparents, adoptive parents, foster parents/carers among other structures) along with reflecting sensitively that some children may have a different structure of support around them (for example: looked after children or young carers).

7. Roles and responsibilities

7.1 The Governing Body

The Governing Body will approve the RSE policy, and hold the headteacher to account for its implementation.

7.2 The Headteacher

The Headteacher is responsible for ensuring that RSE is taught consistently across the school, and for managing requests to withdraw children from non-science components of RSE (see section 8).

7.3 Staff

Staff are responsible for:

- Delivering RSE in a sensitive way
- Modelling positive attitudes to RSE

- Monitoring progress
- Responding to the needs of individual children
- Responding appropriately to children whose parents wish them to be withdrawn from the non-science components of RSE.

Staff do not have the right to opt out of teaching RSE. Staff who have concerns about teaching RSE are encouraged to discuss this with the headteacher.

The Assistant Headteacher (Curriculum) and the appropriate subject leader(s), are responsible, working with the Senior Leadership Team, for designing and developing the RSE curriculum and supporting classroom delivery. All teachers are responsible for teaching RSE. Teaching Assistants support learning, under the guidance of class teachers, including to meet the needs of children with Special Educational Needs and Disabilities.

7.4 Children

Children are expected to engage fully in RSE and, when discussing issues related to RSE, treat others with respect and sensitivity.

8. Parents' right to withdraw

Parents do not have the right to withdraw their children from relationships education.

Parents have the right to withdraw their children from the non-science components of sex education within RSE. At Fairisle Junior School, the only unit we teach that features non-statutory sex education is in Year 6 where the children will learn about conception and pregnancy in an age appropriate manner.

Requests for withdrawal should be put in writing using the form in Appendix 2 of this policy and addressed to the Headteacher.

Alternative work will be given to children who are withdrawn from sex education.

A copy of withdrawal requests will be placed in the pupil's educational record. The Headteacher will discuss the request with parents and take appropriate action.

9. Training

Staff are trained on the delivery of RSE as part of their induction and it is included in our continuing professional development calendar.

The Headteacher will also invite visitors from outside the school, such as school nurses if appropriate.

10. Monitoring arrangements

The delivery of RSE is monitored by the Headteacher through activities such as planning scrutinies and learning walks.

Children's development in RSE is monitored by class teachers as part of our internal assessment systems.

This policy will be reviewed by the appropriate subject leader(s) annually. At every review, the policy will be reviewed and approved by the Governing Body.
