

THE ANCIENT EGYPTIAN GODS

The gods of old Egypt rule over us here,
Bringing us wisdom and wonder and fear.
They look like the things that
The natural world shapes,
Like jackals and beetles and lions.
And apes!

Babi watched over his troupe of baboons,
Ihy, would charm with his beautiful tunes,
Thoth was the scribe god of reading and writing!
Sekhmet the lioness, war god, she liked fighting!

Anubis took care of the recently dead,
Rah wore the sun on the top of his head!

The stories align to the planets and stars!
The sun and the moon, in the timeless stone we'd carve.
Great statues such forms, we revere, we adore,
The ancient Egyptian gods.

For 3000 years they watched over these lands,
Holding the fate of the world in their hands,
Horus would watch with his all-seeing eye,
Nut moved the moon and she held up the sky,
Isis taught humanity, and healed us when we're hurt,
Osiris, god of life and death, controlled the underworld,
Ptah built the Earth and created us all,
Seth, god of chaos, was an evil so and so!

The stories align to the planets and stars,
The sun and the moon, in the timeless stone we'd carve.
Great statues such forms, we revere, we adore,
The ancient Egyptian gods,
The ancient Egyptian gods!
